Brittany Lennon:

The word that comes to mind when I think of the collaboration with Barnes Dennig is partnership. There's a level of professionalism and responsiveness. The collaboration and just mutual agreement that we want to learn from each other and grow and get better has been great.

You've all made our lives easier because we can ask you questions if we're unsure of how to do something. So rather than messing it up, we actually proactively can address the issue.

The KIPP Indy network has been growing, which is great and exciting. We're able to serve more students, but there's also challenges that arise. There's more complex revenue streams, there's more complex accounting aspects, and so it's been really great as we've grown that. The Barnes Dennig team, I also feel like is growing with us, and they can understand some of those unique challenges that we're facing and be able to provide guidance.

Things are changing, regulations are changing. Education is always changing, and so it's really great that as things do change, Barnes-Dennig is right there alongside us and able to help us plan for the future. And Barnes Dennig has been very open to feedback.

And even just this past audit we just concluded a couple of weeks ago, we had changed some timelines and I just was so appreciative because it helped our team better be able to provide information to the Barnes Dennig team and just made the audit process a lot smoother, and that just really makes us feel valued and just makes us appreciate the partnership even more.
